

MAG MESSAGES

Mid-Atlantic Chapter of the Medical Library Association

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

As the MAC Annual Meeting in Charlottesville approaches, we look forward with great anticipation to the events planned by the LAC and Program committees. The CE classes sound enticing and speakers' and poster topics intriguing. After a summer of projects, meetings and travel, a few days to concentrate and reflect on professional development with colleagues and friends is a great opportunity not to be missed. Our heartfelt thank you goes out to the MAC committee members and chairs who have planned, organized, and worked so hard to make this happen.

The MAC Fall Board Meeting is set for September 9 in Charlottesville. Officers, Committees, and Task Force chairs' reports will be reviewed and readied for presentation for the MAC Business Meeting in October. Bylaws and organizational changes that have already been presented to members for consideration and votes will be discussed at the Business Meeting also. I encourage you all to attend and participate in our Annual Business Meeting updates at the MAC Annual Meeting. If you are interested in volunteering for a MAC committee, there is still time. You can find the form on line at

Ann Duesing
2004/2005 MAC Chair

You are invited to the Mid-Atlantic Chapter of the Medical Library Association's 2005 Annual Meeting from Monday October 3rd to Thursday October 6th at the Omni Hotel in historical Charlottesville Virginia. The meeting theme is "Information Innovation:

ANNUAL MEETING SPECIAL INVITATION

Charting New Territory" Expert guides will explore issues relevant to today's librarian from Alane Wilson's keynote address "Content Has Left the Container" to a CE class taught by a cowboy "Horse Sense for Leaders", from the panel discussion focusing on recruitment and retention of new librarians to poster presentations and contributed papers. Come to MAC/MLA's Annual meeting, chart new territory in your profession. Discover a map to success. Please visit the 2005 MAC/MLA Website at <http://www.cbil.vcu.edu/mac/events/2005/meeting.html> for additional information about the annual meeting.

BYLAWS AMENDMENTS

To All MAC Members, Recently you should have received an email message or a listserv announcement containing bylaws amendments for your approval and an accompanying ballot and instructions. These amendments were submitted by the Strategic Planning Task Force and the MAC Immediate Past Chair with the approval of the MAC Executive Board and the MLA Bylaws Committee.

Many of the changes that we are proposing will make our bylaws more consistent with the MLA Chapter Model Bylaws and give us more flexibility. Other changes have been made as a result of survey responses from former officers and committee chairs.

In accordance with the MAC bylaws, we distributed this information on August 5, 2005 and established a voting deadline of September 15, 2005.

If you did not receive this information through email or via the MAC listserv, please contact me immediately at murph005@mc.duke.edu.

Word and PDF versions of the amendments and ballot are located on the MAC Website at (<http://www.cbil.vcu.edu/mac/>).

NEWS FROM THE STATES

Personnel News

Pat Hammond, Community Health Education Center Librarian at VCU Libraries, received a Professional Recognition Award at the 2005 Business Meeting of the Hospital Libraries Section. Pat was recognized for her role in publishing the Hospital Librarianship column in MLA News.

MAC member, Ann Sasser

Evans, reports LifePoint Hospitals, Inc. a for-profit hospital company purchased the hospital she works for Danville Regional Medical Center on July 1, 2005.

A survey was sent to Virginia Council of Health Science Librarian (VaCOHSL) members to assess the future of VaCOHSL. Possible options for the organization include continuing as it is, aligning with the Virginia Library Association (VLA), disbanding VaCOHSL, or maintaining VaCOHSL and disbanding the local consortia. Results of the survey will be discussed at the MAC Annual Meeting which will be held in Charlottesville, Virginia from October 3-6, 2005.

VCU LIBRARIES RECEIVES FUNDING TO EXPLORE INFORMATION RXS

The Tompkins-McCaw Library for the Health Sciences, part of the VCU Libraries at Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU), is conducting an inquiry into the barriers of accessing health information as part of an Information Rx Evaluation Project. The 9-month project is being funded by the National Library of Medicine under a contract (#N01-LM-1-3522) with the University of Maryland, Baltimore. Monica Leisey, a doctoral candidate in the VCU School of Social Work, is leading the investigation to identify and compare the barriers perceived by physicians who write information prescriptions for their patients to the barriers actually experienced by the recipients of the prescriptions. The inquiry is taking place at the Stony Point Women's Health Center and will be finished in March 2006.

Following the completion of the Information Rx Evaluation Project, Monica Leisey will begin a 2-year Informationist fellowship through which she will continue exploring the effectiveness of information prescriptions. The fellowship, funded by the National Library of Medicine, and sponsored by the Tompkins-McCaw Library, will enable Monica to learn information skills to provide health information to patients seeking such at VCU's community health information libraries. Monica will earn practical experience through staffing several of these libraries.

The fellowship also provides an opportunity for Monica to research two areas of interest. First, Monica will discern the importance to patients of having an intermediary with whom to consult when filling an information prescription. Secondly, the fellowship will provide an avenue to evaluate the effectiveness of the information prescription program from patients' perspectives.

NEWS FROM THE STATES

Cheri G. Smith, MLS, Web Instructional Librarian at the Harrison Medical Library on the campus of Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center, was given the Teaching Recognition Award by the Department of Medicine. This is the first time anyone outside the Department of Medicine has been given this award. Ms. Smith was given this award for her extensive teaching of knowledge-based resources as well as her contributions to clinical rounds.

Also:

The Harrison Medical Library, on the campus of Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center recently received a $9,000 grant from the National Library of Medicine. The grant will be used to defray costs for teaching students throughout Maryland to locate quality health information via the Internet. For more information about their program contact Linda Gorman, MLS, Director of the Harrison Medical Library.

NEWS FROM THE STATES

G.S. Terence Cavanagh, Emeritus Professor of Medical Literature at Duke University, died June 26, 2005, in Athens, GA after an extended illness. Canadian born, Terry graduated from the University of Manitoba and attended McGill University in Montreal. While there he worked in the Osler Library for the History of Medicine where he first became interested in medical history and began collecting books for himself (he later became an antiquarian bookseller of note). He was Director of the Clendening Medical Library in the University of Kansas Medical Center, Lawrence, Kansas, and in 1962 went to Duke University in Durham, North Carolina, as Director of the Duke University Medical Center Library and Curator of the Trent Collection of old and rare books in the history of medicine.

In his early years at Duke, he was responsible for and aided in the design and creation of the Seely G. Mudd Building to house the Duke Medical Center Library. After 27 years at Duke, he retired in 1989 as Emeritus Professor of Medical Literature.

While at Duke he issued catalogues of his own medical and science books under the name, Old Galen Books. Upon retiring to Athens, he issued catalogues under the name Emeritus Books. Terry produced books in the name of two private presses he founded, Sacrum Press and The Gazebo Press. In 1983 he gave a talk at the International Congress for the History of Medicine in Paris, France in which he outlined plans for the publication of The Panorama of Vesalius: A Lost Design From Titian's Studio, an important contribution to the fields of medicine and art, subsequently published in 1996. In the last two years of his life, he conceived and published Crust Magazine. In October 2005, an auction of select books from his collection will take place at Swann Auction Galleries in New York.

He was a former member of the Grolier Society of

North Carolina

New York, a charter member of the American Osler Society, an active member of the Medical Library Association and the American Association for the History of Medicine.

Terry is survived by his wife, Susan Carlton Smith Cavanagh of Athens, GA and a brother, Ronald Cavanagh of Williams Lake, British Columbia, Canada.

NOMINATE A COLLEAGUE FOR THE ESTELLE BRODMAN AWARD

Each year, the Medical Library Association honors individuals who have rendered distinguished service to health sciences libraries and furthered the purposes of health sciences librarianship. The MLA Estelle Brodman Award annually recognizes an academic medical librarian, who at mid-career demonstrates a significant achievement, the potential for leadership, and continuing excellence. The Award was established in 1986 with a gift from Irwin H. Pizer and presented for the first time in 1988. The recipient is recognized at the Annual MLA Meeting where they receive a certificate and a cash award of $500. Please take this opportunity to nominate an outstanding colleague for MLA's Estelle Brodman Award for Academic Medical Librarian of the Year. The deadline for applications is November 1, 2005. Complete information and application forms for all MLA awards and honors may be found at:

KEEPING CURRENT USING RSS FEEDS

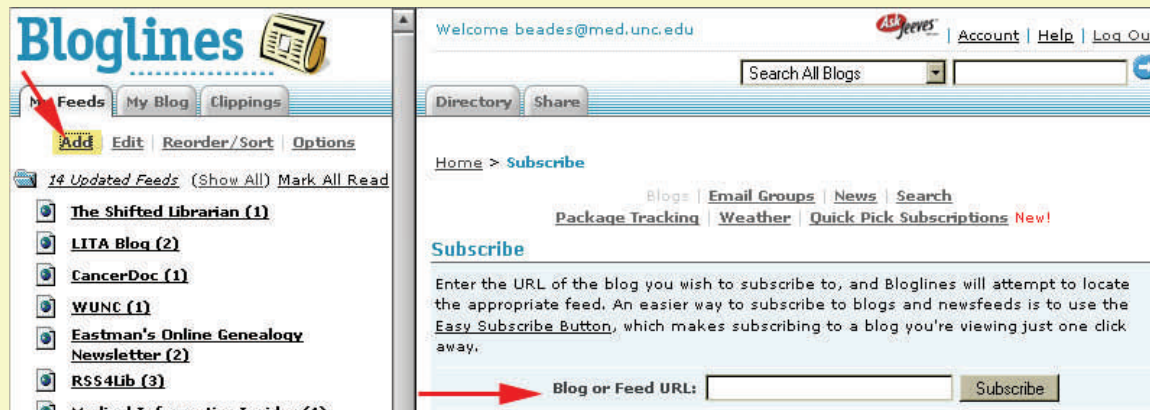

Keeping up with new resources, cool technologies, or just general health news can be daunting. Finding time to read articles or peruse web sites can take more time than most librarians have during the day. RSS can help keep you on top of the latest happenings.

What is RSS?

RSS stands for Rich Site Summary or Really Simple Syndication. It is a text file that can contain news headlines, short summaries of new items, pictures, and even audio files. To view an RSS feed, you need an aggregator. Bloglines (<http://www.bloglines.com/>) is a free web-based aggregator that is easy to use and very convenient.

Setting up Bloglines

To use Bloglines, you will need to set up an account. The service is free! Once you have logged into the service, it is very easy to subscribe to an RSS feed.

Simply click on the Add link on the left hand side and type in the URL of the RSS feed. That's it! Now you can browse RSS feeds for information. Also check out the Directory tab for the most subscribed to feeds. There are several library oriented feeds to be found in the list!

Some suggested feeds for keeping current

Krafty Librarian – <http://kraftylibrarian.blogspot.com/>

Created by a medical librarian in Ohio, this site keeps up to date with the latest technology related to medical libraries.

ResourceShelf DocuTicker – <http://www.docuticker.com/docuticker.xml>

Docuticker is a daily update of new reports from government agencies, think tanks, and other groups.

KEEPING CURRENT USING RSS FEEDS

ResearchBuzz – <http://www.researchbuzz.com/researchbuzz.rss>

ResearchBuzz is a collection of items on search engines, online databases, and other information resources.

Library Grants – <http://librarygrants.blogspot.com>

For librarians interested in grant opportunities!

Current Copyright Readings - <http://copyrightreadings.blogspot.com/>

Bibliography of current articles on the Digital Millennium Copyright Act, the TEACH act and other copyright issues. Maintained by M. Claire Stewart, Head, Digital Media Services, Northwestern University Library

Hospital Library Advocacy – <http://hosplib.blogspot.com/>

This weblog brings together many resources related to hospital library advocacy: standards and their promotion, making the business case for library services, promotion of library within hospital and to outside organizations, etc.

Library Stuff - <http://www.librarystuff.net/>

The library weblog dedicated to resources for keeping current and professional development

Table of Contents via RSS

Journal publishers are using RSS as a new Table of Contents service. Simply subscribe to the journal's RSS feed and see the latest TOC when published. If you are within a library that subscribes to the journal online, you should be able to go directly to the article from the RSS feed. To help you find what journals have RSS feeds, check the following list:

- RSS E-Journal Feeds - Ebling Library (Health Sciences Journals)
<http://www.hsl.wisc.edu/bjd/journals/rss/index.cfm>
- IngentaConnect Browse Publications
<http://www.ingentaconnect.com/content>
- Extenza - Browse by Title

KEEPING CURRENT USING RSS FEEDS

Finding more

RSS is fast becoming a way to get information out to folks in a timely manner. Finding an RSS feed that will help you keep up to date with the many happenings in the library world is easy. There are several search engines especially for RSS. Three of the top engines are:

- Syndc8.com
<http://www.syndic8.com/>
- Feedster
<http://www.feedster.com/>
- Feeds4all
<http://www.feeds4all.com/>

While you will have to log into Bloglines to view the feeds, it is much easier than going to several different websites to gain the same information. This one-stop shop of information makes it easy to keep up to date and avoid information overload!

AHIP POINTS FOR NEWSLETTER BYLINE!

Here's your chance to amass AHIP points—contribute to MacMessages!

Linda Collins relates that a “bylined contribution in a newsletter” is worth one point.
 “Newsletter articles written as part of committee responsibilities are not awarded points.”

For further details refer to the Academy Point Index under “bylined contribution to a newsletter” at:

www.mlanet.org/academy/points2.html#authoring.

-Editor

*Thanks for sharing achievements and current news from your library,
 or your state with your colleagues.
 If you have a news item from a newsletter or from your library calendar that is newsworthy, please send it along, in any format, to your State Reporter anytime during the two-month period before the next deadline. Your Reporter will consolidate all the news and then forward it to the Editor.*

Thanks again,

-Ed
